

Hello

Thanks for purchasing my file. We are going to discuss how to edit the compositions in this help file.

First of all, you need to know where the comps are located which you need to see. You can check the reference file to see which animation you want to edit so that you can directly edit that typography animation.

Lets start.

Lets open the first animation. The method of editing is the same in each one of them. You will see few comps and a control layer.

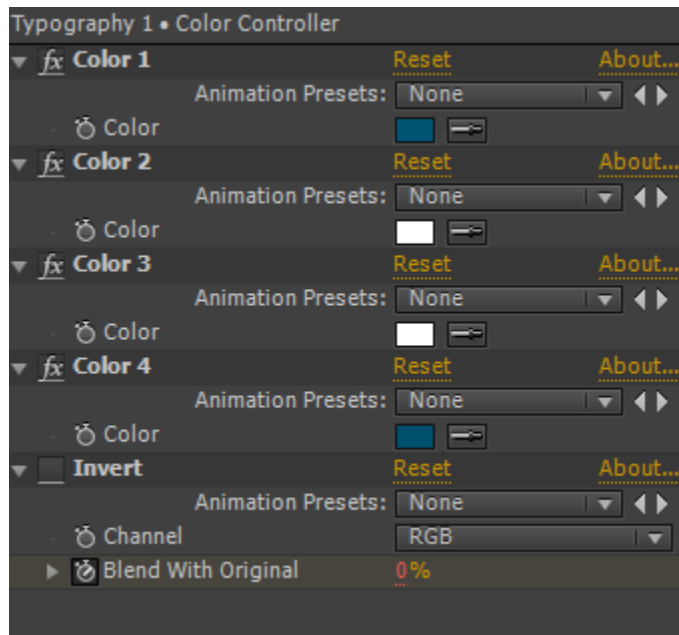

As you can see, you have color control layer from where you can change the colors of the animations.

Below these, you see few comps name starting with T & A.

The comps starting with T are directly the text editing comps, you open the comp you see the text layer.

The comps starting with A have further comps either with A or T. This is done to pre-comp few layers and animation that require a separate comp.

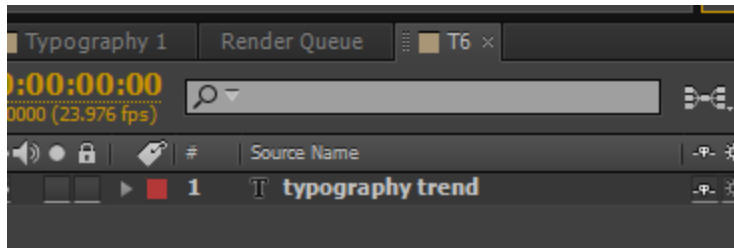

This is how the color control looks like depending on how many color panels are required.

You can change the colors from here and the animation just works.

If you open the T comps, something like this you will see.

You will need to edit the text layer here and align in the composition and it will work automatically. Nothing to change.

If you open the A Comp, you will see something like this.

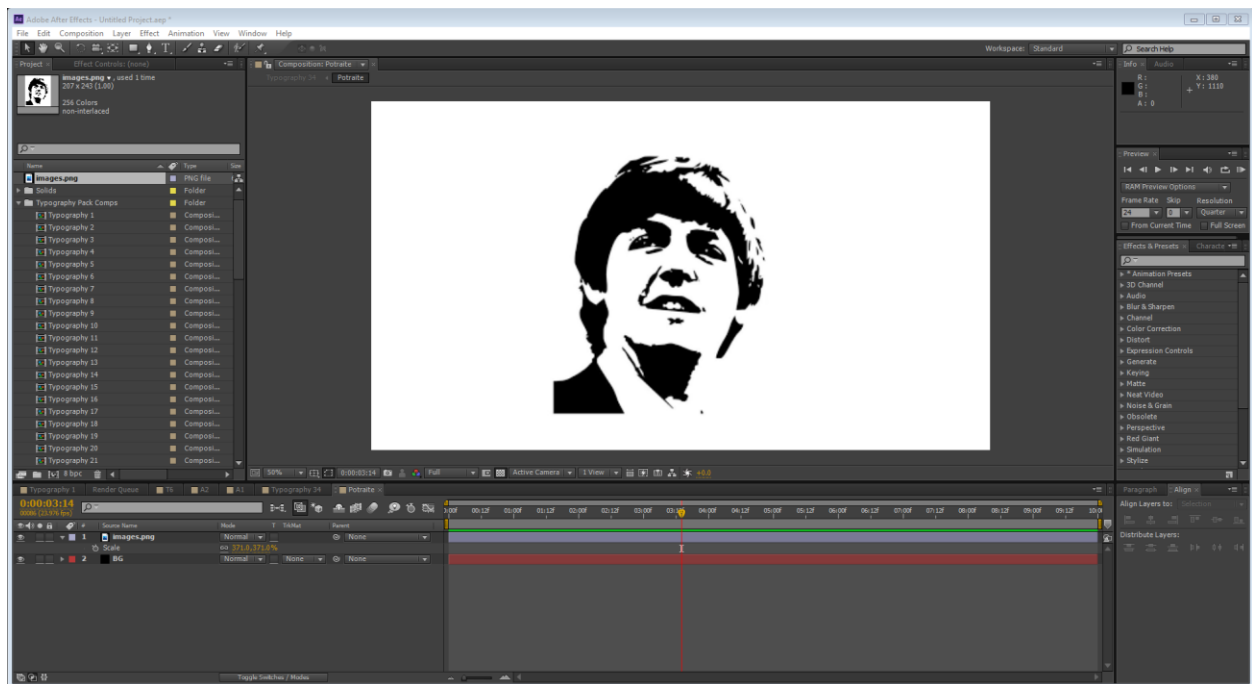

Here you see further text comps to be edited. You T1 & T2 represent different text layers so that you edit them for separate text layers.

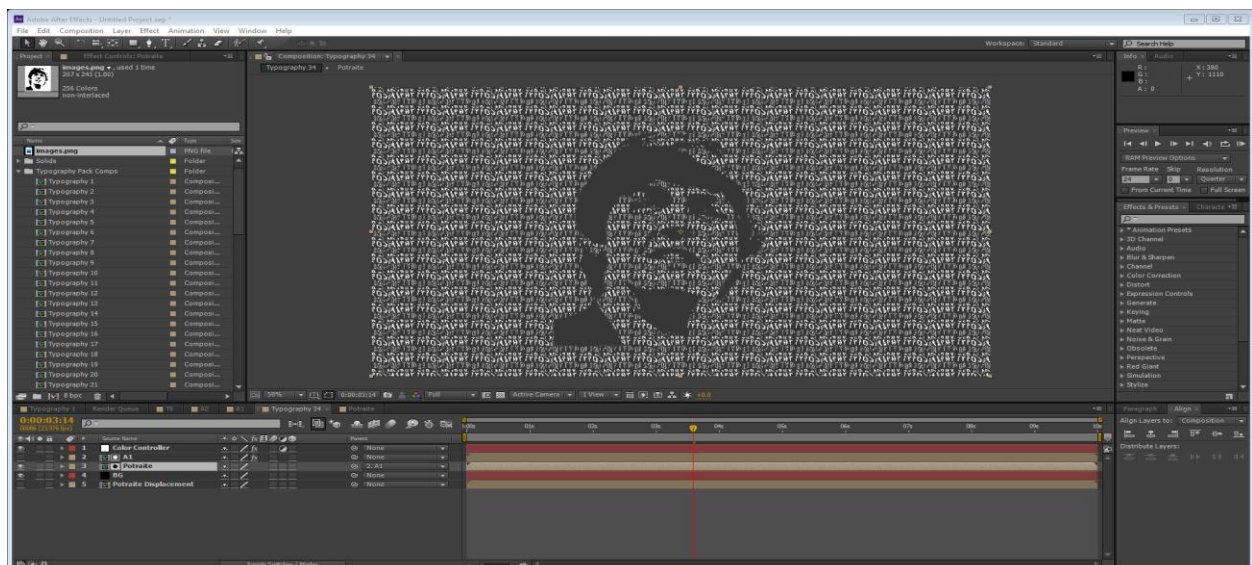

You can follow these steps for all the animation. Edit text, change colors and you are ready to render.

However, you can see a few potraite like animations in the preview. Those require you to insert a black and white photo of the person or thing to be displayed. The picture should always be in just 2 colors for it to work.

For example, the animation no.34 & 35. You open them, then open the portrait composition and insert your picture like this one.

It will animate to this.

Once done, they are also ready to render.

Apart from these basic editing, you don't need anything else to edit and just be ready to render the project files.

Thank you again and please rate the item from your download section.

If you have any questions, please leave a comment or contact me via my profile. I will respond and help as soon as possible.